Questions & Answers:

Question: 1. All of the casework noted and detailed on A300 is calling for “wood” casework. However, on the finish sheet A601, they reference P LAM colors and finishes for these same Rooms. Please advise if the casework is P LAM or wood. (the countertops @ the base units is solid surface).

Response: All casework and cubbies to be wood.

Question: 2. Also regarding finishes, Corridor Rm 2A on A300 is noted as having P LAM-2 finishes, but I do not see any work in this area. It is shown on sheet A102 – no work shown. Advise if any plam work is required here?

Response: There is no P LAM work in Corridor 2A.

Question: 3. At this time, I assume all work associated with note #13 shown thru out to “refinish existing stain wood casework” is complete by others.

Response: Note #13, “Refinish Existing Stain Wood Casework”, is to be done by the General Contractor.
