“Here's to the crazy ones, the misfits, the rebels, the troublemakers, the round pegs in the square holes... the ones who see things differently -- they're not fond of rules... You can quote them, disagree with them, glorify or vilify them, but the only thing you can't do is ignore them because they change things... they push the human race forward, and while some may see them as the crazy ones, we see genius, because the ones who are crazy enough to think that they can change the world, are the ones who do.” - Steve Jobs
A big “thank you” goes out to all SBTLs who attended the February professional development. Your bravery in challenging yourself in improving the creation of teacher action steps is uplifting - AND - your courage in embracing yourselves as innovators and seeing yourself in a different creative light has been exhilarating. Keep up all your hard work in your instructional and personal development, as your growth mindsets are visibly evolving. We applaud you.

Instructional Leadership Development
This month we zoomed in on the 3rd step of the Six-Steps to Effective Feedback from Leverage Leadership: A Practical Guide to Building Exceptional Schools by Paul Bambrick-Santoyo.

When writing action steps use the criteria below:

- High-Impact: the move that will make the biggest difference for student learning or adult investment
- Criteria for Success: clarity around what success looks like or sounds like
- Practicable: the SBTL can help the teacher practice it or plan for it
- Achievable: can be accomplished in 48 hours
Here are a few examples of action steps that meet the criteria above:

1. Post objectives in student friendly terms, prominently for students to see throughout the lesson.
2. Make at least one connection between the lesson objective and past learning.
3. Ensure that students have particular tasks or responsibilities within small groups. Communicate these tasks both verbally and in writing.

Personal Leadership Development

The Ten Faces of Innovation by Tom Kelley

This month during our leadership development, we learned how our knowledge and experience affects who we are as innovators. We know that our faces can evolve over time, that we can work to increase our efforts in a specific face, and that our face may be different depending on our surroundings.

Our personas and faces can affect many things. It can affect how we choose to give feedback and action steps during a debrief with a teacher (i.e. that murky water). It can affect our input during a leadership meeting. It affects how we problem solve. As you move through the next few weeks, focus on your face when problems arise or when you are brainstorming with a group. The more you see yourself as an innovator the more creative you will become.
PARTICIPANT FEEDBACK
February K-8 SBTL PROFESSIONAL DEVELOPMENT

Today's session provided me with time to reflect on my practice and extend my skills as an instructional leader.

WE HEARD YOU
K-8 SBTL DIRECTORY

It is important that we have peers and colleagues to connect with, but, that can be difficult in the SBTL position as most SBTLs work as an individual entity. Having fellow teacher leaders to bounce ideas off of, brainstorm, or problem solve can help in many ways.

As mentioned during our meeting, we will create a K-8 SBTL Directory for those who are interested. If you would like to participate, please fill out the form below by March 10th. The directory will only be shared with those who have participated.

Fill out this form, if you would like to be included in the K-8 SBTL Directory.

THIS MONTH’S
“YOU SHOULD KNOW…”

...from the Office of Teaching & Learning

➢ The K-8 SBTL Job Description (T4) has been approved and finalized. The description will be shared with you from your principal. Be on the lookout as it is hot off the press!

...from the Office of Specialized Services

➢ The Office of Specialized Services have identified that our K-2 students struggling with phonemic awareness are in need of consistent practice. We would like to encourage you to connect with your building’s Special Education Liaison (SEL) to assist in guiding support in this area as a collaborative effort.

LEADERSHIP & DEVELOPMENT OPPORTUNITIES

TEACHER LEADER ACADEMY: Accepting applications until 3/3/2019
The objective of the Teacher Leader Academy is to strengthen teacher leadership by aligning teacher leader roles and development structures to competencies and indicator skills essential for success. This will be done by supporting teacher leaders through intentional learning experiences in a 3-day summer intensive cohort format with follow up professional development and individualized coaching. Teacher leaders in the academy will have an opportunity to: (1) develop essential leadership skills, and (2) to establish a network of colleagues who can be a professional resource. *This opportunity is open to all teacher leader roles within the District. No late applications will be accepted.

PART-TIME CURRICULUM WRITERS: Open until filled
The Office of Curriculum, Instruction, & Assessment is looking for part-time curriculum writers for ELA, Social Studies, Math, & Science! Writers can actively participate in 82→130 hours of curriculum work.

TUNE UP TUESDAY: 3/12/19 & 3/26/19
Tune Up Tuesday is a series of engaging and interactive professional development opportunities that empower teachers, promote collaboration, and provide teachers with a variety of next-day strategies to help them tune up their craft. Check out the March Flier, here!

TEACHER SYMPOSIUM: 4/13/19
Questions go to: professionaldevelopment@philasd.org
The Teacher Symposium is an annual, teacher-led professional development event that gives teachers the opportunity to participate in engaging, relevant professional development sessions that will have a direct impact on their instructional practices.
