Educators!

Pennsylvania Ballet is glad to be able to make its Spring 2021 programming available to teachers for use in their classrooms. This includes free access to the entire run of show for:

- ◆ March 25th—31st programming -Concerto Barocco, Clear, Suspended in Time, and Penumbra
- ◆ April 29th—May 5th programming -Allegro Brillante, Polyphonia, Raymonda Suite, and And So It Is...
- ◆ May 27th– June 2nd programming -new works from Meredith Rainey, Russell Ducker, and Juliano Nunes
- ◆ For more information about our Spring 2021 programs please visit PaBallet.org

To share this wonderful opportunity please register for the promotional code (available beginning March 9th) that will give you free access to programming!
please click:

<https://tickets.paballet.org/forms/spring-2021-season-school-registration>

Once you have registered you will receive a promotional code that will let you purchase each show individually for free. You will receive additional information about how to access the events after purchase. The promotional code will remain valid until June 2, 2021, but please note that events are only accessible to watch during their stated timeframes: March 25 - 31 for the March programming, April 29 - May 5 for the April programming, and May 27 - June 2 for the May programming.

*Please note that certain performances feature bare-chested male dancers, for which reason this programming may not be suitable for students below middle school.
